P&P Giving Back to the Local Community

P&P staff have put on their marigolds to help the Number Five Project, which has offered a vital lifeline to local homeless people for nearly thirty years!

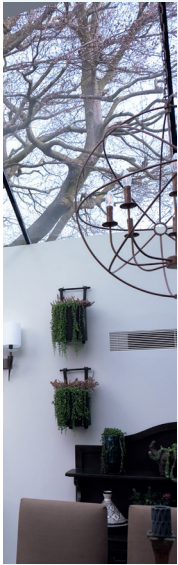

From 6pm every evening, up to 14 men and 2 women can enjoy a hot evening meal, a shower and a bed for the night, as well as get help with benefits, medication and referral to specialist agencies.

Neale Redman, Project Manager at Number Five, comments: "Jennie and 'the Clean Team' from P&P glass came with buckets and dusters in hand and made a huge effort to give our whole project a spring clean from top to bottom – even the skirting boards were sparkling!

"They really got stuck in and were such a help – thank you so much to everyone involved!"

Why is Guildford so popular for second home owners?...

Despite an extra 3% stamp duty charge levied on additional property purchases since April 2016, one in four houses bought in Guildford last year (around 550) were purchased as second homes. Guildford's second home purchases have increased by 22% year-on-year, so what exactly is making Guildford so appealing to second home owners.

Over the past two years, property prices have out paced average earnings, with Guildford ranking in the top 10 places where this has happened.

With this in mind, it's also interesting to note that the surge in second homeowners entering the Guildford property market includes a considerable number of private landlords purchasing second homes to rent out.

Since April 2018, privately rented domestic and non-domestic properties in England or Wales must achieve an Energy Performance Certificate (EPC) rating of at least E or above to legally grant a tenancy to new or existing tenants. So, if you or your clients are private landlords, now is the time to upgrade double-glazing to ensure compliancy – which, in-turn, will increase desirability to new tenants through heightened energy efficiency and lower energy bills.

Top Dogs in the Office!

As an office of dog lovers, we thought it was only right to include some of our furry friends in this edition of the P&P newsletter. So, please say hello to the office canines and their owners; (from left to right) we have charming Casper with Donna (Glazing Administrator), adorable Misty & Lulu with Ulrich (Director) and playful Parker with Brian (Installation Operations).

P & P Glass has now been trading for over 38 years and in that time, much has changed in the development of windows, doors and glazing. When we started out, PVC windows were in their infancy available only in white and now they are available in finishes and designs indistinguishable from timber. Timber windows have changed too and are once again, a quality product designed to last and suitable to grace any home.

One thing that has not changed over the years, however, is our commitment to quality products, good professional advice and friendly customer service. In a changing world we have outlived our guarantees many times over and will endeavour to stay relevant and competitive into the future, maintaining our values for quality and service.

We feel lucky to have so many loyal customers who continue to come back to us and regularly recommend our services to others. I hope that you find this edition of Glassmatters of interest and look forward to helping you with your future projects and home improvements.
